

University of Huddersfield Repository

Cromie, Esther

Exhibitors: Esther Cromie

Original Citation

Cromie, Esther (2010) Exhibitors: Esther Cromie. In: Sample. University of Huddersfield, Huddersfield, p. 23. ISBN 9781862180871

This version is available at <http://eprints.hud.ac.uk/id/eprint/8298/>

The University Repository is a digital collection of the research output of the University, available on Open Access. Copyright and Moral Rights for the items on this site are retained by the individual author and/or other copyright owners. Users may access full items free of charge; copies of full text items generally can be reproduced, displayed or performed and given to third parties in any format or medium for personal research or study, educational or not-for-profit purposes without prior permission or charge, provided:

- The authors, title and full bibliographic details is credited in any copy;
- A hyperlink and/or URL is included for the original metadata page; and
- The content is not changed in any way.

For more information, including our policy and submission procedure, please contact the Repository Team at: E.mailbox@hud.ac.uk.

<http://eprints.hud.ac.uk/>

Mr and Mrs Jolly decided they wanted to go see their grandchildren Betty and Sarah, so they packed their bags and set off for the long drive.

He decided this would be a great time to ask as he thought he worked very hard sewing working smoothly. You see in the end it's just like the jolly family but two, you spot them?

Mr Charles packed his things and went to visit his mother, James.

There once was a very old couple called Mr and Mrs Jolly who lived in a cottage with their cat, Mr Charles.

Walt Disney once described his business as “making people, especially children, happy.”³³ This is what I hope to achieve through my interactive children’s book aimed at both girls and boys. By using contrasting embroidery techniques such as hand and computer aided machine stitch, which gives an interesting tactile quality to the product, I am encouraging the child’s sensory development whilst giving them the opportunity to play, explore and most importantly learn.

